The Honorable José E. Serrano
Chairman
Subcommittee on Financial Services and General Government
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Chairman Serrano:

The undersigned organizations of the National Coalition for Public Education (NCPE) wish to comment on the expiring Washington, D.C. private school voucher program in conjunction with the hearing your subcommittee will hold tomorrow on the District of Columbia appropriations process. NCPE strongly opposes the funneling of public money to private and religious schools through vouchers, and believes Congress should not reauthorize or continue funding the Washington, D.C. program.

The nearly $15 million a year program provides vouchers worth up to $7,500 for approximately 1,900 students. Created as a five-year pilot program, it is scheduled to expire in 2008. Despite proponents’ claims five years ago that the vouchers would permit students to attend better schools, the Congressionally mandated federal evaluation released in 2007 found no significant differences in academic achievement between voucher students and their peers in Washington, D.C. public schools.1

In addition to the lack of academic evidence supporting the program, a U.S. Government Accountability Office report also documented several accountability shortcomings in the program, including federal taxpayer dollars funding tuition at private schools that do not even charge tuition, schools that lacked city occupancy permits, and schools employing teachers without bachelor’s degrees.2 It also noted that children with physical or learning disabilities are underrepresented in the program compared to the public schools.3

Despite the program’s dubious record, President Bush’s FY09 budget request actually calls for an increase to $18 million for vouchers. NCPE believes that money should instead be invested in the public schools. We also note that despite receiving public money, the participating private schools are not subject to all federal civil rights laws, and do not face the same public accountability standards, including those in the No Child Left Behind (NCLB) Act, that all public schools face. We also believe this program continues to raise problems under the First Amendment of the Constitution.

NCPE believes the objective evidence does not support the reauthorization or continued funding of the only federally funded school voucher program. As the subcommittee moves forward in the appropriations process we strongly urge you to oppose the program’s continuation. Thank you for your consideration of our views on this important issue.
