

NASSP POLICY & ADVOCACY CENTER

The National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) presents an exclusive Capitol Hill briefing event:

STUDENT VOICE AND YOUTH ENGAGEMENT IN THE 2018 MIDTERM ELECTIONS AND BEYOND

Thursday, January 31, 2019 • 9:00–10:00 a.m. (ET)
Rayburn House Office Building, Room 2043, Washington, D.C.

Young people voted in large numbers in the 2018 midterm elections. In fact, there was a greater voter turnout among those age 18–31 than in any midterm election in the past 25 years. Motivated by civil rights, gun violence prevention, and educational opportunity, young people—including many high school and middle level students—have taken a leading role in mobilizing, organizing, and effecting change in their communities over the past two years.

Join members of NASSP's Student Leadership Advisory Committee to learn more about the issues that are motivating voter turnout and civic engagement among their generation and the projects they are leading around the country to register voters, influence policy, and engage their peers.

#NASSPStudentVoice #EngageInChange

As the administrator of the National Honor Society, National Junior Honor Society, National Elementary Honor Society, and National Student Council, NASSP is proud to provide this opportunity for students, teachers, and school leaders to make their voices heard.

GUEST SPEAKER

Lauren Bauer

Fellow in Economic Studies,
Brookings Institution

PANELISTS

Jack Tucker

Student, Carroll Senior High School, Southlake, TX

Sydney Neal

Student, Saint Mary's Ryken
High School, Leonardtown, MD

Devlin Andrews

Student, Coventry High School, Coventry, RI

All panelists are members of NASSP's Student Leadership
Advisory Committee.

MODERATOR

Robert Motley

Principal, Atholton High School, Columbia, MD

NHS, NJHS, NEHS, and NatStuCo are programs of NASSP